

Coca-Cola President and CEO James Quincey on Sustainability

At The Coca-Cola Company, everything we do starts with our passion for providing the beverages that people want. Achieving more suitable, long-term growth requires us to continue reducing sugar where possible while ensuring our portfolio around the world is broad enough and diverse enough to meet our consumers' needs. Our sustainability efforts aim to help strengthen the communities we serve and address the challenges we face as a business. Sustainability is integrated throughout different levels of our organization. View our 2017 Sustainability Report
