Extractive Industry Governance Forum (EIGF)

Background

In its strategic framework for 2014-2018, the Ministry of Mines and Energy has set a vision of “Wealth For All” to promote a transformation of the nation’s investments in natural resources, in particular mining, oil and gas, into a new paradigm of socio-economic development with high resources management efficiency, and, environmentally friendly and socially responsible industry.

Under this framework, the Ministry has initiated an EIGF as a platform to promote multi-stakeholders approach in governance of this sector. The EIGF will gather all key stakeholders from industry, government and civil society, to meet and exchange dialogues on policy interventions, sector strategy’s formulation, implementation and other governance related issues of mining, oil and gas sector in Cambodia.

A first EIGF meeting was held at the Ministry of Mines and Energy’s conference room in Phnom Penh on June 21st, 2016. All initial key stakeholders named in this resources guides have attended the meeting.

What Is?

EIGF is a platform for enhancing exchanges and dialogues among key stakeholders of the extractive sector in Cambodia. It aims at promoting knowledge creation, integrity and shared value in business and industry practices of extractive sector, in particular mining, oil and gas.

What Is Not?

EIGF is not an organization, but a networking. EIGF does not have authority or competency to make any decisions or execute any policies or strategies related to extractive sector in Cambodia. EIGF is not representing any organizations nor playing any leading or oversight roles of any sorts in the extractive sector.

EIGF's Rules of Engagement

I- OBJECTIVES

The EIGF shall create an environment for dialectic interactions among all key stakeholders to build knowledge creation about the sector, sharing information of progresses and sector's socio-economic and environmental performance, recognizing the adverse impact extractive operations also have on environment and local communities, and facilitating effective public communication.

The proposed EIGF's rules of engagement are set to ensure that engagement of all participating stakeholders in the EIGF is efficient and productive, and all the principles set below are met.

II- PRINCIPLES

All participating stakeholders in EIGF shall make efforts and necessary measures to engage in the EIGF based on the principles as follow:

- Equity and Inclusiveness: all participating stakeholders will have equal opportunity and access to information necessary to actively engage in a productive dialogue and have equal opportunity to contribute to the discussion.
- Non-adversarial manner: all participating stakeholders will contribute openly and honestly, and in a non-adversarial and collaborative manner.
- Openness, Trust and Respect through Participatory approach: all participating stakeholders will be consulted in a timely manner on the matters related to EIGF.
- Knowledge creation: all participating stakeholders will accept the diversity of perspectives and objectives, and utilize dialectic approach in EIGF's discussion to achieve knowledge creation.

III- RULES

The following is an initial set of rules adopted by EIGF's participating stakeholders. All participating stakeholders in EIGF shall observed and adhere strictly with these rules.

Rule 1: Representation – Each organization participating in the EIGF shall duly appoint a representative with full competency and authority to represent the organization in the EIGF.

Rule 2: EIGF platform will be managed under Co-chairmanship by:

- One government institution representative, and
- One representative on rotating basis from industry or CSOs group – co-chairmanship role of the EIGF will be rotated on an annual basis and is chosen by each stakeholder constituency.

Rule 3: Legal binding – No any legal binding nor legal agreement shall be derived from any expressions, views and/or opinions made by an organization's representative in the EIGF's discussion.

Rule 4: Solicit agenda – A participating organization can submit issues, topics or agenda for EIGF discussion, which will be then incorporated into an overall meeting agenda to be consulted and endorsed by all interested participating stakeholders. Solicited agenda shall have been organized in such a way that would permit assessment on its strategic necessity and including the following information: short description of issue(s), detailed explanation about issue(s) and its impacts, list of evidences and real cases related to the issue(s) raised, and, suggestions or recommendations for addressing the issue(s).

Rule 5: Freedom of engagement – Freedom of expression by each participating stakeholders, based on the rules of law, shall be ensured and enhanced in all proceeding of the EIGF. All participating stakeholders shall maintain integrity in all inputs and expression made in EIGF interreaction.

IV- FINAL STATEMENT

As EIGF progresses in time, these rules of engagement shall be revised in a participatory and consultative manner with all stakeholder groups and updated to reflect lessons learnt and new challenges faced by the sector's governance and development.
